SOME INDUSTRIES DULL

Paper Mills and Shirt Factories Working Overtime However—Carmen's Statistics.

Practically all cotton and shoe plants in Maine are on part time schedules, causing a surplus of workers who are unable to secure employment in other lines, according to a survey of employment conditions throughout the United States conducted by the Department of Labor yesterday.

Paper mills and the shirt manufacturing industries in Maine, it is stated in the survey, are working overtime and building operations continue active and these tradesmen are well employed. Commenting on labor conditions the survey says in regard to Camden, that practically all factories are operating full time and there is very little unemployment evident. The building of many homes gives employment to a large number of the local tradesmen.

The Registration Board is having its midsummer session for the revision of the lists. The new chairman, Robert A. Webster, is at the wheel.

The Maine W. C. T. U. will hold its annual convention in Portland, Sept. 24-26. This is the jubilee or 50th convention of the organization and will be of marked interest. Very appropriately, Portland, the home of General Neal Dow and of Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, has been selected as the convention city.

Dr. Boole is vice president of the National organization, treasurer of the World's W. C. T. U. and president of the State of New York W. C. T. U. with its 50,000 members.

Aug. 13 will be W. C. T. U. day at Old Orchard campground, and Aug. 14 at Ocean Park. Prominent temperance workers from several of the New England states are expected to be present. Miss Clara H. A MILLIONAIRE CLOWN

One of the Big Features of the Elks Charity Circus—The Springfield Show.

The newspaper writeups of any show goes far toward telling exactly what is what. A glimpse at the files of papers in the cities where the Johnson shows, which feature the Elks Old Home Week and Charity Circus, have played give interesting sidelights on the organization.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Union are clipped the following items under date of the current month. One of the most unique and inspiring demonstrations of good fellowship in Springfield's long history was presented to an enthusiastic public last night when 491 Knights of Columbus, members of the closest of Westfield Councils, and their hosts, the Nobles of Melba Temple of Shriners marched side by side through the downtown streets and over to the west end of the Memorial Bridge, where the knights were the guests of honor at the big Shrine circus.

Members of the two fraternal organizations combined in a spectacle that was both colorful and impressive and the outburst of enthusiasm from the throngs that lined the route of march was good to hear. It was a wonderful exhibition of the closest kind of friendship, and marked the dawn of a new era in the history of fraternal organizations.

The pleasantly unusual sight of Shriners and Knights of Columbus marching side by side was witnessed by thousands along the line of march, and not a few were the expressions of approval from the bystanders. Upon the arrival at the circus grounds the knights were escorted once around the entire show when ranks were broken and the scene was quickly transformed into a gay carnival.

Word has evidently spread as to the high grade show being put on by George W. Johnson company. The big top was quickly filled and throngs immediately lined up for the second performance. Noble H. H. Johnson, the Shrine Circus publicity manager, said last night, "The members of the Shrine generally have expressed themselves as more than pleased with the high quality of the acts assembled by the George W. Johnson Entertainment Company. This Johnson company can well be recommended. It is generally felt that it has even exceeded its promises." Afternoon performances will be given at 2:15 o'clock and evening shows at 7:45 and 9:15 o'clock.

That the spirit of the affair was entered into with most cordial relation was demonstrated when Thomas J. Hagen, after the show, "The Shrine Circus," said that in a few weeks it will be capable of playing "The Shrine Circus." Competition with the trained seal of the Shrine Circus will be the objective.

Another issue of the same paper has this to say, featuring a picture of George W. Bowen, "Millionaire Clown."

The Shrine Circus was voted "great" this afternoon by 2500 boys and girls who attended as guests of Melba Temple, Boy and Girl Scouts, members of the Boys Club, proteges of the Union Relief Association, charges of the Home for Friendless, all assembled at the Boys' Club House in Chestnut street, where Noble J. Frank Tucker brought order out of seeming chaos and finally got his mischievous guests into marching order.

The Shrine Circus Band led the way through Liberty, Main and Vernon streets, over Memorial Bridge to the circus. George W. Johnson, in charge of the show proper, turned the management over to George W. Bowen, the "millionaire clown," who expanded the clown and comedy acts and gave a little more time to the horse and dog performances, much to the evident satisfaction of his young audience.

The local appearance will be Aug. 4-9 under auspices of Rockland Lodge, B. P. O. E. The tents will be set on the corner of Willow street and Broadway.

THE STORM CENTER

New York Will Be Battleground in the Approaching Campaign.

The New York Herald Tribune's Washington Bureau says: New York State, in the opinion of veteran politicians, already looms as the storm center of the Presidential campaign. That state will apparently live up to its traditional reputation of being the key to the election.

Viewing the November outcome at long range it is not easy for political observers to see how either Mr. Coolidge or Mr. Davis can win without the 45 votes of New York State in a contest which, by reason of La Follette, promises to be sharply triangular.

All manner of discussion and speculation went on over the question of whether John W. Davis has any real show of winning. The bulk of opinion is that this depends on whether Mr. Davis is capable of wrestling much of the East, and especially New York, away from Mr. Coolidge.

McAdoo being nominated, in the light of the controversies of the New York convention, there is no doubt he would have been slaughtered in New York and other Eastern states. The New York Democrats had their knives for him. Whether they will give whole-hearted support to the Davis and Bryan ticket is something not yet clear. Gov. Smith has promised to support the ticket, but whether this is perfunctory is something to be told by developments.

The general impression here is that President Coolidge will be extremely strong in New York by reason of the confidence reposed in him by business men and his hold on the voters. His chances in New York State are viewed as better than those of Davis. It is conceded, however, that great importance attaches to whether Governor Smith and Tammany make a real effort to give Davis the State. If they do, New York will be the center of a great struggle.

Although Davis and Bryan apparently are planning a vigorous campaign in the West and East, it is expected here that the Democratic strategy will provide for a special effort to capture certain large Eastern States. The reason for this belief is that, with La Follette active the Democrats will apparently be much handicapped in the West and North. Unless they can carry New York and draw down a large bloc of electoral votes out of the East they will stand little show of accumulating enough votes to win in view of conditions in the West.

The importance of New York in the Democratic calculations is seen by a brief glance at the table of electoral votes. New York has 33 votes, plus Maryland and Kentucky, 34 votes, a total of 67 votes. The Davis and Bryan ticket will need a fair chance of getting this big block of votes and carrying West Virginia, Mr. Davis' home state.

If it be assumed that Mr. Davis is to get the South and do well along the border, then the question of his election will rest on his ability to obtain something like 120 votes in the North, East and West. All present indications are that Mr. Davis will find himself weak in the Middle West and much of the far West, and if this be true the problem whether he has any show of election will probably narrow down to New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

So far as New England is concerned, there is little doubt President Coolidge will have the better of it, and his friends believe he will annex every electoral vote there.

New York, with 45 votes; New Jersey with 14, Ohio with 24, Illinois with 29 and Indiana with 15 in the Electoral College will, it is believed here, be objectives of a great drive by the Democrats. They have a total of 127 votes. The block of votes would easily settle the election, and inasmuch as they practically all come from fighting ground, it is considered certain that the Democrats will concentrate on them.

This is likely to be the case especially if the campaign shows the grip of La Follette on the West is so strong as to make the contention there one between Coolidge and La Follette, with Davis likely to run third.

VIA AIR MAIL

How Uncle Sam Ties Your Billet Doux Across the Continent.

Have you used the air mail yet? It's not only the latest thing, but entirely practical. Read the following:

In July 1, regular through air mail service was inaugurated on the government Air Mail Route from New York to San Francisco. For the present, only the portion of the route from Chicago to Cheyenne is equipped for night flying, but as the service expands, the remainder of the route will probably be equipped to permit night flying on all portions.

The transcontinental air mail route is divided into three zones—(1) New York to Chicago, (2) Chicago to Cheyenne, (3) Cheyenne to San Francisco. Air mail postage is eight cents an ounce within each zone in which mail is carried by airplane. No additional charge is made for transporting mail to the airplane stations, or from the air mail to destination. Special air mail stamps should be used, although the words "Air Mail" under ordinary stamps will suffice. A special delivery stamp will insure immediate delivery at points where mail arrives too late in the day for regular carrier delivery.

From New England, rates for air mail postage to various states are: 8 cents an ounce to Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Wisconsin, 16 cents an ounce to Colorado, Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming; 24 cents an ounce to California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Trans-Pacific, and foreign.

A letter mailed in Rockland in season for the 1.10 train will leave New York by air mail at 10 a. m. the next day, and will arrive in San Francisco at 5:45 a. m. (Pacific time) the following day.

Israel Snow On the Jump In His Newcastle Shipyard—Fifteen Employed.

In his new yard at Newcastle Israel Snow is putting the finishing touches onto his first boat, which is being built for Arthur Bain of Rockland.

It is 10 feet long, 14 feet beam, 4 1/2 feet draft. She is 90 per cent complete. It will have hard pine plank, white pine deck and housing. All but the hard pine was cut in Newcastle. The boat has a deep cockpit, as it will be a sculler's boat. A 50 H. P. engine will furnish the motive power. Mr. Snow is bending the frames for a flounder fisherman for Stanley Butler of Nantucket, 46 feet long, 12 feet beam and a four and a half feet draft. This packet will have a 30-horse power Berglund crude oil engine, and must go overboard this fall.

Mr. Snow has a contract for another boat 58 feet long 15 feet beam and five and a half feet deep, a Gloucester trawler.

The craft Mr. Snow is building might well be called utility boats, for they can be used for a variety of fishing, beam trawling, mackerel dragging, flounder catching or freighting, if necessary. Mr. Snow has more work practically assured. Fifteen men are busy in his yard.

EDGECOMB CUT-OFF

The State Highway Commission has a crew at work on the Eastern end of the new bridge or fill extending across the flats from the Newcastle or Edgecomb side to Davis Island across from Wiscasset. This is a big job and it is doubtful if it is completed this year. When it is opened however, it will avoid a couple of miles of very crooked and hilly roads around the eddy at Edgecomb, and shorten the route to Damascus and the East for at least two miles. It will be remembered that owing to the protest of the Boothbay Harbor people, this road has been held up for several years—Bath Times.

Reduced Service On Maine Central Will Affect Rockland, Maybe.

The rumor which has been current in this city for some days as to probable curtailment of the summer train service, was unfortunately confirmed yesterday with the official announcement from Portland that three car shops had been cut down and that there will be a reduction of passenger and freight service commencing July 23. The Portland paper says: "Reports from unofficial sources are to the effect that two trains are to be taken from the Rockland division and one from the Somerset branch, and that one of the Bangor-Boston trains is to be started from Skowhegan instead of Bangor, as well as other changes made."

"Reduction of freight service is also being effected and will continue to be effected through a spreading out of the schedule, without materially disturbing the service."

"Business conditions are said by Maine Central officials to be the reason for these drastic changes. General business conditions and increased use of the automobile are both considered as factors in rendering unprofitable service which has hitherto furnished satisfactory revenues."

H. E. Comins, the Maine Central's capable and courteous agent in this city was asked yesterday in regard to the rumors.

"I am directed to make no statements until the official orders have been issued," he told a Courier-Gazette reporter. "We had been given to understand that a change was to be made July 21st, but the Portland report is to the effect that it has been deferred one week."

This is the first time for years that it has been found necessary to curtail railroad service in the peak of the summer business.

Only sufficient number of men will be left on at the railroad shops to care for maintenance and emergency work. It was explained that officials that owing to slack business extra engines were on hand in condition to care for the needs of the road so that the closing down of the shops for the designated period could be made without impairment of the service.

The changes mentioned are said to be in accord with a policy which has already been determined upon as to reduction of maintenance costs and which has previously become effective so far as reducing the number of men in the yards and curtailing the yard service.

WISCASSET TABERNACLE

The Wiscasset Tabernacle campaign opened July 12. The preparations for this year's conference have been greater than for any preceding year. Workers whose effectiveness have made them known from coast to coast in America are on the program.

The Pent family who opened at the tabernacle is an especially strong combination of preachers and singers. Their last year's meetings have been a subject of widespread comment throughout the entire season. All services are held on standard time.

THE FOOL'S PRAYER

The royal feast was done; the king sought some new sport to banish care. And to his sister cried: "My Fool, kneel now, and make for us a prayer!"

The jester doffed his cap and bells, And stood the mocking court before. They could not see the bitter smile Behind the painted grin he wore.

He bowed his head, and bent his knee Upon the monarch's altar floor. His pleading voice arose: "O Lord, Be merciful to me, a fool!"

"No pity, Lord, could change the heart From red with wrong to white as snow. The shame that stains me is mine alone. Be merciful to me, a fool!"

"The not by guilt the onward way Of truth and right, O Lord, we stray. Thy by grace and mercy we are saved. We hold the earth from heaven away."

"These clumsy feet, still in the mire, Go crushing blossoms without end— These hard, well meaning hands we thrust Among the heart-strings of a friend."

"The ill-fated truth we might have seen— Who knows how sharp it placed our pain? The word we had not come to say— Who knows how greatly it had pained."

"Our faults no tenderness should hide. The chastening stripes we need all! But for our blindness—O, in shame Before the eyes of heaven we fall."

"Kind words no balsam for mistakes! Men crown the knave and scourge the sage. That did he will; but thou, O Lord, Be merciful to me, a fool!"

The room was hushed; in silence rose The king, and sought his private door. And walked apart, and murmured low, "Be merciful to me, a fool!"

CANVASS BEGINS TODAY

If last evening one thousand citizens could have listened to the impressive address by Dr. Tulloss we are confident that the Community Chest campaign would have been sent over the top almost before the enlisted workers in it had marshalled themselves for their active campaigning. Out of practical experience with the Chest idea, as president of the association in his home city of Springfield, Ohio, the Doctor with a directness and an eloquence that were inspiring depicted the advantages that have followed its introduction into every community where it has been set up, and congratulated his audience upon the fact that Rockland is to be the first city in Maine to take this forward step in organizing its charities upon an effective, thorough and economical basis. That Dr. Tulloss, breaking a fixed rule, should interrupt his vacation rest for the purpose of giving our people his services in this connection, is a measure of his belief in the benefits of the Community Chest and a piece of friendly assistance that the citizens will gratefully appreciate.

The workers this morning began their systematic canvass of the city along the lines carefully organized with view to giving every person opportunity to share in the glory of the pioneer chest. The story in detail has been laid before our people. Already one-half the total sum desired has been pledged. Nothing now remains but for the great body of citizens to exercise their privilege of co-operation with the band of patriotic workers who are giving their

Not that betting settles anything, but as registering a perfectly cold and dispassionate view of a political situation it is never without interest to observe the figures that the betting fraternity hang up. And in the connection let us note that at this time the odds run largely in favor of the Republican presidential ticket.

The dollar you give for the Community Chest starts at once on its errand of doing good among the people of Rockland. It stays at home, circulates among your neighbors and eventually, after achieving its desired purpose, finds its way back into your pocket. Bread on the waters, brethren.

With the whole American Bar Association soon to gather in London, and two thousand American advertising agents meeting in that city this week, the great metropolis is in the way of getting a fair taste of two of the professions that make this country famous.

Let us be prompt, courteous and helpful to the men and women who are making the canvass for the Community Chest fund, bearing in mind that the time and effort and generous spirit which they contribute are unselfishly given for the good of the entire community.

A glance at their photographs satisfies the average judge of character that the two chief political parties have nominated presidential candidates who represent a high type of Americanism.

Pretty fine piece of elvish spirit is that displayed by the Water Company in the thorough manner with which its Lindsey street improvements have been carried out.

A Man to Be Reckoned With

THE RECOUNT IS ON

"I Want Only the Truth Established," Says Candidate Farrington—"Fourteen Hundred Fraudulent Votes Cast," Says Senator Brewster.

Gov. Baxter and the Executive Council yesterday disposed of the preliminary in connection with the official recount, and the actual work of examining the ballots began at 9:30 this morning. The work is expected to occupy a fortnight, but will be expedited as much as possible.

In the appended statement of Senator Ralph O. Brewster, the candidate who was defeated on the face of the returns is made the charge that 1400 fraudulent votes were cast for Farrington.

At the opening of the session yesterday Gov. Baxter read the following statement explaining the procedure to be followed during the recount.

"Under date of July 1, 1924, Hon. Ralph O. Brewster in a communication filed with the Secretary of State, alleges that the return or record of the vote cast in the towns and cities and plantations named in the list hereto attached and marked 'Schedule A' and hereby made a part hereof of any and all other towns, cities and plantations in the State does not correctly state the vote as actually cast in such towns, cities and plantations."

"The Governor and Council realize the gravity of the proceedings that are herewith instituted. We fully understand the importance of the issues at stake. Our powers and duties are limited by the laws of the State and our decisions will be based upon the said laws. The rights of all interested parties will be protected and the final result will be based upon a fair, honest and impartial interpretation of the laws of the State of Maine and of the decisions and opinion of our courts and justices."

Mr. Moulton, in his argument regarding the power of the Governor and Council in deciding contested elections, quoted at length from court decisions and sketched the history of the successive amendments which have been made to the election laws.

He pointed out that in every instance the amendments have given greater authority to the Governor and Council which, according to the language of Judge Virgin, "act in an executive capacity and are the final depositories of authority" in these matters.

Mr. Moulton took the position that the only relief available for Senator Brewster is through the Governor and Council since the law provides that only the man who is elected or claims to be elected can appeal to the courts. He pointed out that this provision does not apply to the present case since nobody claims to be elected Governor.

"The Governor and Council," he said, "has entire power and authority to see that the will of the 97,000 people who have voted for the Republican candidates for Governor is not thwarted."

Frank G. Farrington of Augusta, who has received a certificate of nomination as the Republican candidate for Governor was asked by Governor Baxter if he had any statement to make.

"I have no desire except to have the truth established," said Mr. Farrington, "and, if the truth, properly and legally arrived at, as I am sure it will be in this important matter, discloses that Senator Brewster should be given a certificate of nomination rather than myself, I will be the first one to take his hand and congratulate him."

"If there has been fraud or any act on the part of any men which has been contrary to law, I hope that the one who has committed the fraud or illegal act, if any has been committed, will receive the punishment he deserves."

"I do not desire the nomination if its attainment depends on votes fraudulently or illegally cast, and if the situation is such as is claimed by the petitions, no one regrets it more, or is more anxious than I am, to have the truth established and to have justice done, but the task is a heavy one for this tribunal, and I am here not to obstruct the truth and justice, but to assist in any way possible in finding what the truth is, in order that there may be truth and justice for the citizens of Maine, and may I say, your Excellency, truth and justice for myself."

Edwin Libby Relief Corps will hold a special meeting Thursday evening. Action must be taken on matters of importance.

"No tabulation of our findings will be made until all the ballots have been examined and the final decision rendered. The Governor and Council themselves as the count proceeds will make no addition of totals."

"The Governor and Council will avail themselves of the advice of the Attorney General, and should we be required to propose questions to justices of the Supreme Judicial Court of the State, the examination and recount meanwhile will proceed and the ballots in connection with which the questions are propounded will be set aside until the case of the State is decided."

THREE BIG GAMES

Are On the Cards For Rockland In Next Few Days—Camden Beats Haphazards.

I SAW LOUIE ARAU at Saturday's game in Camden. In fact I seldom go to a game in that town where the players are not to be found contentedly sitting in the third base bleachers. Like most of the fans he is not content unless he has a certain seat, and unless somebody has a match so that he can start a "cig."

With that burning properly "hooked on" Louie is as happy as they make 'em. A good sport and always jolly, I have found him.—The Sporting Editor.

Camden 7, Gardiner 3
 What gave promise of being an exceedingly smart game in Camden Saturday afternoon fell considerably short of it, because of the indifference shown by the opposing team, the Hazards of Gardiner. This did not look at all like the classy outfit which won the Bok prize last season.

The hired battery, Brisk and Dolan could unquestionably play ball, and the pitcher had 15 strikeouts to his credit, but he refused to take himself seriously, either at the bat or in the box, and so far as the writer could discern he was just as well satisfied with defeat as victory. There may have been a reason for his elation which did not appear on the surface.

Only four errors are charged against the Hazards, but these do not include two or three gross errors. Judgment, such as an undrilled school team would not have been guilty of making.

Long, formerly of Rockland, played second base for the Hazards, and put up a first class game, but had he held Dolan's beautiful throw to second in the 3d inning it would have saved one of the unearned runs. Camden's first three runs were scored after Brisk had fanned the first three men at bat. Dolan dropped the third strike on the third man, Brisk hit the next batter, and Camden's next batters each made a single. Dolan's double and two passed balls by Grindle nearly evened the score, but after that the Hazards appeared to care little of consequences.

Except in one or two spots Camden played consistent baseball. There was no inning in which the visitors were able to make more than one hit off "Happy" Price, but his career was suddenly terminated between the 6th and 7th innings, when a hard hit foul ball struck him fairly on the head, while he was sitting at the player's bench. Price dropped like a log, and it was some minutes before he fairly regained consciousness. Cross finished the game, and was so effective that the Hazards did not score off him.

Young Denny Richards caught the crowd's favor with a long drive which got by the left fielder and went for a home run. Ferris Thomas pulled down a fly in the 8th inning which seemed to have the earmarks of a home run.

The Rockland ball team has three big games ahead. Camden comes Wednesday for the second game of the championship series, playing on the Broadway field at 5:30. Friday afternoon the postponed game with the Philadelphia Glants will take place at 5:30, and on Sunday Rockland makes its third attempt to play in Togus.

A tremendously disappointed group of baseball fans learned early Saturday afternoon that the Philadelphia Glants had broken down a long way from Rockland and could not possibly make connections here. Word was hastily sent to the adjoining towns that the game had been cancelled, but there was no way heading off those who were coming from a longer distance, and those patrons had their trip for nothing. Nobody felt worse than Manager Wotton, who found himself utterly unable to cope with the situation. The booking office of the Philadelphia Glants sent regrets by telephone, and arrangements were made to have the game played at 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon (daylight saving time). The Philadelphia Glants will be here early in the day, and they promise to give the fans more than they ever had for their money in this city. There will be wild doings every minute after the word is given to play ball.

SWAN'S ISLAND HIGH

School a Necessity If Community Is To Live, Thinks Resident.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
 For the last 15 years sporadic efforts have been made by interested individuals, and within the last two years more or less organized efforts have been directed toward securing a High School on Swan's Island and without success. The community has good grade schools and has had many excellent teachers, and pupils having completed the eighth and ninth grades have been fired with ambition to seek higher education. Such parents as were able to shoulder the extra expense have sent their boys and girls away to other towns and cities to attend High School. The added expense in the matter of transportation, board and lodging, clothing, entertainment and accessories, causes an outlay which in many cases the parents can ill afford. In the aggregate for the past ten years, subtracting the amounts paid by the town for tuition, it would have furnished a standard High School for the island, including the building and equipment, and salaries of teachers, and properly augmented the tax rate.

But in the narrow policy of shutting their eyes to the future and the needs of their children, the coming of a few years hence, and blindly trying to limit the present day expense year after year, the townspeople have no High School; inadequate schools, and what is most to be regretted, have lessened the population of the town. The parents of boys and girls of beginning High School age, naturally are loathe to send their children to strange cities and towns to be turned loose without parents' care and guidance. Consequently many families have moved away, once away, they rarely come back, but reestablish themselves under new and better conditions and the island is the loser.

The children when their education is completed, now themselves citizens and now taught to think, do not come back and add new life and thought to their old home, but locate for themselves where their children in turn may have the proper advantages.

Under such conditions is it any wonder that Swan's Island, as nice a place as any in the world if properly managed, is running down hill. Swan's Island, town free from any large indebtedness, with money in the treasury, with taxes not excessive, not even high in proportion to the valuation, should and could have an eye to its future welfare; should establish and maintain a standard High School so that its younger generation (and no brighter and smarter stock is found anywhere) would stay on the island and develop themselves and in turn develop the island community.

Then, too, there is more to be considered. With existing conditions, morality and respect for law and order is not upheld as it should be and the reputation of the island suffers. New-comers take a look at conditions and see that they do not want their children brought up that way. Many of the island taxpayers have no thought for Sunday observance. Look at the fishstands wide open on Sundays; ice cream stands, stores open and offering enticing resorts for unthinking youth. Education brings the ability to think, and the desire and the will to think, and thought builds the future development of any community. With a proper standard High School the community would conserve the population; would retain many of its best citizens; would furnish and improve the future generations of citizens; would conserve respect for morality and law and order and would attract new citizens and industries.

Within the last ten years you can easily count 20 pupils who have permanently left the island and 40 to 60 taxpayers lost. Can we have a High School? Certainly the answer is Yes. A new building is not necessary within the immediate future; we already have adequate buildings which could be used at moderate rental. For each of the first two years $1200 would pay teachers' salaries and for supplies. With the third and fourth year classes more teachers and equipment would be necessary but we could and would be ready for the expense.

Think a little, fellow citizens. Do you want the island town of which you used to be proud, to degenerate and become a small, summer resort, or do you want to see it a thriving town with business prosperity, respect for law and order and attractive to the best type of citizens. It lies in your power to make either. Education is the keynote to future prosperity.

UNCLE SAM WINNER

Again Triumphs In Olympic Games—Callant Olympian Wins Marathon.

American left the Olympic battlefield Sunday triumphant in track and field for the eighth successive time since the modern revival of the Olympic games. But when dusk brought a close to the greatest and most spectacular fight ever witnessed for international athletic honors, America shared the final glory with her gallant rival from the North, Finland.

Although the Americans in a convincing and final demonstration of their all round supremacy Sunday shattered two more world and one Olympic record, the premier mantle of Olympic triumph went to the new Finnish hero, Albin Stenroos, who raced under a blazing sun to the classic marathon championship, a victory which capped the climax to Finland's clean sweep of the distant race and gave the little Nordic country the greatest laurels it has ever known.

Stenroos, a 40-year-old Helsinki woodworker, running his first competitive marathon race in fifteen years, sped over the 26 miles of country road to one of the most impressive victories in the history of the blue ribbon event. He closed the finish line inside the stadium amid a deafening ovation, in two hours, 42 minutes, 22.5 seconds, nearly six minutes in front of his nearest rival, Bertini, of Italy, with Clarence De Mar, Melrose, Mass., the American veteran, finishing a close third, to send the stars and stripes up to the Olympic march, for the marathon for the first time since 1912.

Following is the record of points in the Olympic games:
 United States 255; Finland 165; Great Britain 85; Sweden 31; France 26; Italy 19; Switzerland 15; South Africa 11; Hungary 10; Australia 10; Canada 8; Norway 6.

Argentina 5; New Zealand 4; Estonia 4; Holland 4; Denmark 3; Chile 1.
 First places: United States 1; Finland 10; Great Britain 3; Australia 1; Italy 1.

THE MIGHTY PEN

Stenography Now and As It Flourished 4000 Years Ago.

"Bebe Norris of New York, N. Y., is a stenographer, A. D. 1924. She doesn't trace her blood lineage to ancient Babylon. But Bebe had what might be called a 'professional grandmother', a hundred or so times removed—Bibbe Narem, by name—who did precisely the same sort of work as Bebe's for a prominent merchant in Mesopotamia's greatest city more than two thousand years before Christ.

"When Bibbe's boss clapped his hands or made whatever signal Babylonian bosses made in place of pressing a buzzer button, Bibbe grabbed her stenographic 'pad,' picked up a stylus and hurried in to take dictation.

Stenography 4000 Years Ago

"Murashu Sons, Murashu Building, Nippur: Honored Gentlemen," probably began the dictation, addressing the historic banking firm which held the place in Babylonia that the Rothschilds have held in Europe.

"As her employer dictated Bibbe rapidly jabbed her stylus into the soft clay of her little 'pad.' For like all her stenographic sisters of 4000 years ago, Bibbe was literally a 'pen-push.' The stylus was a little rod of bone about six inches long, triangular in cross-section, cut off sharply at one end so that when this end was pressed into damp clay it left wedge-shaped impressions."

World's Oldest Pen

"Such a bone stylus described in dispatches from Bagdad as 'the oldest known pen' has just been dug up on the site of the ancient city of Kish, and gives archaeologists one of their best specimens of the tool with which the priceless cuneiform tablets of Babylonia and Assyria were made.

"The discovery of this stylus led the National Geographic Society, in the bulletin quoted above, to reconstruct with actual names and facts gleaned from other recent discoveries, a scene in a typical business office of forty centuries ago.

"After the dictation was finished," continues the bulletin, "the dictator might very well have issued such familiar instructions as these: 'Please make a copy of that, Miss Narem, sign it for me, and get it off. Have an engagement that will keep me out until after the Nippur mail leaves. For Babylonian business firms kept copies of letters in their files; almost everyone of any prominence had a personal seal used by himself or his employees in signing documents; and regular postal routes were maintained between Babylon and the other principal cities of the empire.'

"Man Only 'Writing Animal'"

"The discovery of the bone stylus at Kish, the bulletin points out, discloses a class of implements that has been more important to the development of civilization than perhaps any other group of tools.

"It is the growing knowledge set down on various spaces by various implements, and passed on to generation after generation that has made possible development in the arts, sciences and industries. Back of the Kish styles are more primitive members of the pen family: chisels to cut into stone and wooden tablets, thorns to scratch on hides, flint splinters with which to furrow cave walls, bones and sticks with which to make probably the first rude marks of all in sand or dirt.

"In a parallel line, stretch back the few ancestors of the pencil, bits of lead, lumps of chalk and soft earths, and the ends of charred sticks.

"Pen Has Great Array of Descendants"

"The descendants of the Babylonian stylus and the scratching tools that preceded it present a startling array of implements and mechanisms. In China and Egypt paper and papyrus were invented to supersede the cruder and heavier writing surfaces and the great forward step was made of applying a third substance, ink, by means of a brush or pen.

For months I was troubled with very sharp pains in the abdomen and could not find any relief the pains were so bad. I had to drop to the floor as they were very sharp I could not stand. A friend of mine told me about this famous Dr. Donnell's Gall Stone Solvent, so I decided that I would go to him about my troubles, as the other doctors that I had told me it was gall stones. After taking only one bottle of Dr. Donnell's Gall Stone Solvent I passed several stones, and within a month I had obtained what I call a permanent cure, and I feel better today than I ever did before. DON'T CHANGE MODELS

Dodge Brothers Retain Same Body and Mechanical Design.

It is quite evident from the comments of buyers, according to Fred C. Dyer, manager of the Dyer's Garage, that the public appreciates the significance of Dodge Brothers policy of making constant improvements in their motor cars instead of changing models every year.

"Magazines, newspapers and bulletin boards everywhere are reminding the people this month that this policy continues to prevail and that they may buy Dodge Brothers cars without fear of seeing a new and entirely different model put on the market soon after they take possession of the present type car."

"Coming just at this time," said Mr. Dyer, "when many manufacturers are preparing to issue new models, in keeping with their annual custom, this advertisement is having a striking effect. It serves as a wholesome reassurance to prospective buyers. They dislike the idea of buying a car today and finding a month or so later that it is an obsolete model. And it is only natural that they should. The depreciation loss is out of proportion for a few months' use. Moreover, most people like to be up-to-date in their motor equipment and if they wish to follow their desire in this respect they must accept this sharp depreciation loss."

"Dodge Brothers Motor Car owners who buy new cars every year—and there are many of them—have a big advantage here. A one-year-old Dodge Brothers car is modern in appearance and mechanical design. That fact is conceded by everyone. Equally important to its resale value, however, is the fact that Dodge Brothers will manufacture a year later."

"Another factor enters into this policy which is also of considerable importance to buyers. A change in models involves a complete change of dies and production schedule. It upsets a factory completely and often means a virtual stoppage of production. This naturally means a loss to the manufacturer and his only recourse is to get it back in the price of his product. The saving effected by Dodge Brothers, through their policy of constant, gradual refinement instead of radical annual changes of models, is faithfully returned to the buyer in the form of surplus value. Every dollar saved, of course, enables the factory to give that much more for the money."

"Also although most owners do not realize it, the cost of replacement parts is greatly affected by bringing out yearly models. One reason for the extremely low price for Dodge Brothers parts is the fact that parts stay standard for years"—adv.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Kangaroo Rat Street

"Thump, thump," went Mr. Kangaroo Rat's hind feet.

"Thump, thump," they went again.

And before long another Kangaroo Rat could be seen along the Western desert where they made their home.

"I thought I'd come to call," said Mr. Kangaroo Rat to his neighbor.

"I didn't hear you knock at first," said Master Kangaroo Rat.

Mr. Kangaroo Rat said nothing. But to himself he said that probably Master Kangaroo Rat had been putting away some of the food which he stored in his burrow home.

Before he had put it away he had had it in his cheek pouches which served as a marketing basket.

He never left his marketing basket anywhere as you can imagine!

"I suppose," Master Kangaroo Rat said, "if we had doors all our doorbells would ring the doorbell instead of thumping with your hind feet to show that you had come a-calling."

"Possibly I would," said Mr. Kangaroo Rat. "But it does seem so funny to me to think that some creatures think they're the only ones who live in streets."

"They think they are the only ones who go around and pay sociable calls on each other. They do know that we, too, have little villages and that the paths or streets between our houses are well-worn trails because we have passed over them so often in going to call on each other."

"Of course at times we quarrel. When come try to get the better of us or take away our things we quarrel, but then people often quarrel about their possessions and about their rights!"

"So we're not unusual about that."

"I think you have a nice burrow," Mr. Kangaroo Rat went on. "It is cozy and homelike and you build fine tunnels."

"I think the homes and mounds and burrows and all about these parts are very attractive and nice, don't you, Master Kangaroo Rat?"

"Indeed I do," Master Kangaroo Rat answered, "and the Pocket Mice think so too. They're friendly with us and we like them."

"They have so many of our ways. They don't drink any water, but by thoroughly digesting their food they don't need water any more than we do."

"Well, Mr. Kangaroo Rat, I hear you have three entrances to your home. I found two all I needed. But I must come over and see yours soon."

"You must, indeed," said Mr. Kangaroo Rat. "Perhaps you would come back and see it with me. I found two all I needed. But I must come over and see yours soon."

"But Master Kangaroo Rat, it seems a pity we should be called by a name which really we shouldn't have. We're not rats and we're not kangaroos. It is true we have short front legs and long hind legs and can jump. It is true, too, we have a long tail by which we balance ourselves when we jump.

"But our nearest relatives are the Pocket Mice. But come along now and see my house. It's just down Kangaroo Rat street, and it's a pleasant evening to be out. I don't like the daytime, do you, Master Kangaroo Rat?"

But he knew the answer to that question, so off they jumped together and were joined by some Pocket Mice as they made their way down Kangaroo Rat street.

Likens Modern Life to Piecework in Factory

"Life is getting more and more like piecework in a factory," says Dr. Mary Dunning Rose, president of the Women's Medical society of the state of New York.

"You push on to see if you can't do just a little extra all the time. And there is always that push to do more."

"If you drive a motorcar, and many people do, your nerves are shocked every time you take the wheel."

"Women need more sleep. Eight to ten hours. Some are better off with twelve."

"The fact that so many in New York city eat in restaurants accounts for the fact that our death rate is lower than elsewhere in the state. People don't order or eat more than they need in a restaurant. Operated under the board of health, public places must have fresh, good food, not the spoiled products they sold 20 years ago."

Doctor Rose recommends her own profession as a particularly satisfying one for her own sex, since it demands qualifications, usually found in women, patience, sympathy and attention to detail—qualifications which will not be wasted in such a career.

"We need more doctors," continued Doctor Rose. "All those I know are busy. Of course, it takes years of preparation, and a business career seems to bring results more quickly."—Marjory Rex, in the New York Journal.

Great Awakening Is Coming to This Man

There's a certain member of the Hollywood Athletic club who didn't know what he was getting into, when he joined. It seems that his wife took a great fancy to the beauty parlor, and when she discovered that she could go there as often as she pleased and merely sign a tab, she got the habit bad.

Hubby, being a busy man, had not gone to the club, and thinking that the bills at the end of each month were merely announcements of coming events, he never opened them. Finally he did open one envelope, and it chanced to be a letter telling him that no more service could be extended his wife until the account was settled.

After inspecting the bill, he decided that this was great news and sent the club a letter of thanks.—Los Angeles Times.

First Bifocal Lens

Benjamin Franklin invented the bifocal eyeglasses—one of the greatest of blessings—to fit his own needs. At Paris he frequently dined out where there were beautiful women in the company. Like all sensible men, he was fond of good food, and fond of looking at lovely women. He declared it to be important to see your food before you put it into your mouth, but he also wished to see the faces of the guests that decorated the table. It was inconvenient to put on one pair of spectacles to eat, and another pair every time anybody spoke to him. He therefore hit upon the device of having the upper part of his glasses consist of one lens, and the lower of another, which proved in practice, like nearly everything he thought of, eminently satisfactory.

GREAT PLANS MADE

How London Will Fete the American Bar—King and Queen To Entertain.

Edward B. MacAllister, who will represent Maine at the special meetings of the American Bar Association in London, sailed from New York Wednesday. The dizzy round of sightseeing, social events, etc., which awaits the members of the American legal fraternity on the other side of the water may be judged from the following London correspondence in the New York Sun:

A week's program of high speed entertaining which will keep them occupied from twelve to fourteen hours daily awaits members of the American Bar Association who will be the guests of the British Bar from July 20 to July 27. King George and Queen Mary will give a garden party at Buckingham palace, honoring the American visitors. Royalty, eminent jurists, university authorities and numerous professional and civic bodies have combined to furnish diversion for practically every minute of the visitors' time here.

Reservations for several hundred at the Sunday morning services at Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Roman Catholic Cathedral have been especially made for the visiting barriens and an official welcome will be accorded at Westminster Hall on Monday morning by the Lord High Chancellor, Lord Haldane. His address will follow introduction of the guests to Lord Haldane and the King's judges by Attorney-General Patrick Hastings and the President of the British Law Society.

The first of the privately arranged garden parties which are to be features of the week's program will be given by Lord and Lady Phillimore at their palatial home, Cam House, in Kensington, Monday afternoon. Monday evening there will be dinners at the Inner Temple, Middle Temple, Lincoln's Inn, Gray's Inn and at the Law Society's headquarters, it having been found necessary, owing to the small seating capacity of the old Inns of Court dining halls, to divide the parties for each of two successive nights.

Ambassador Frank J. Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg will receive the party at Crewe House, in Mayfair, Tuesday afternoon. Arrangements have been made for a service with special music at the Temple Church, Wednesday morning. More than 800 may be accommodated later in the day.

Ceremonies marking the presentation of a Blackstone memorial by the American Bar Association in the central hall of the Royal Courts of Justice, garden parties in the grounds of Lincoln's Inn and Gray's Inn, a reception and banquet by the Lord Mayor and Corporation of the City of London, a reception by the Mayor and Mayoress of the city of Westminster and a reception at the Imperial Institute, South Kensington.

The Bucking Palace garden party and reception at two of the old City of London companies' halls, Grocers Hall and by the City of London Solicitors Company at Salter's Hall, mark Thursday as a red letter day.

On Friday at Clivedon-on-Thames Lord and Lady Astor will give a garden party. Lord Haldane and Miss Haldane, the Earl and Countess of Birkenhead, Viscount and Viscountess Cave, Viscountess Finlay and Lord and Lady Buckmaster will receive in the Palace of Westminster, House of Lords, from 9 to 12 Friday evening.

A garden party in the gardens of Wadham College, Oxford University, and luncheon parties in the halls of several Oxford and Cambridge University colleges on Saturday conclude the official program.

LAWYERS' BIG DAY

Centennial of Lincoln County Court House To Be Celebrated July 23.

Plans for observing the centennial of the Lincoln County court house in Wisconsin are rapidly being whipped into shape. This event will take place on Wednesday, July 23, at which time the members of the supreme court of the State, members of the Clerk of Court's Association of Maine and members of the bar from all sections will assemble here for the purpose of commemorating a hundred years of service of the old building.

Chief Justice Cornish of the court, while not conceiving a session of that distinguished body that day, has invited all members of the bench, active and retired, to meet for the occasion. The Lincoln County Bar Association, which has taken up the work of handling the observance has extended an invitation to the bar of the State to attend.

There will be two addresses of an historical nature, one by Augustus H. Moulton of Portland, president of the Maine Bar Association, and the other by William D. Patterson of Wisconsin.

Mr. Patterson will deal almost exclusively with the story of the court house itself. He has devoted much time to hunting out information concerning the old building and those who have occupied it, so this address will form one of the important interesting and accurate chapters in the history not only of the courts of the State, but of the State itself.

Following the exercises at the Court House there will be a shore dinner at the Wiscasset Inn, after which the day will be devoted to visiting places of historical and scenic interest in this vicinity.

During the day the members of the clerk's association will hold their annual meeting and election of officers. Originally this observance of the court house anniversary was started by the association. At their meeting last year in Alfred they voted to meet in Wiscasset this year in view of the fact that it would be the hundredth birthday of the court house.

Except for certain modern improvements, such as electric lights, steam heat and running water and sanitary equipment, the old building remains in its original form.

It is very gratifying to all that in making these changes, the county commissioners in charge did not destroy the old lines of the building, as is so frequently the tendency. They left the old niches in the corners of the room where the fireplaces were located and later when the big wood-burning stoves were placed the old bar rail, with its simplicity of design, was not removed and except for new chairs, the furniture of the court chamber is the same as in the beginning.

The building is of brick construction and the entrance is one of the New England. Architects and masons unite in declaring that the door arch is one of the finest pieces of masonry to be found anywhere and it is not unusual for men to come long distances to study this, both as to design and the workmanship.

FAMOUS WALTER L. MAIN LIONS IN ROCKLAND, JULY 26th

With the Radio Fans

(By the Radio Editor)

Hugo Gernsback in his August issue of the Radio News gives several pages of the magazine to the newly developed Solodyne Principle (solid meaning single and dyne meaning power) which does away entirely with the "B" battery and all high tension current. Here surely is something for the radio enthusiast to prick up his ears about and in his description of the solodyne principle Mr. Gernsback tells us that in a short time we shall see hundreds and thousands of Solodyne circuits much the same as there are today for the standard line of vacuum tubes.

Most important of all in this development of radio reception is the utter impossibility of blowing the filaments of the tubes by incorrectly hooking up the circuit and inasmuch as it is estimated that only 29 per cent of vacuum tubes used today actually wear out from use, the other 80 per cent suffering the disastrous effect of being blown out, this is the point of interest that will appeal to the radio fans the world over.

Three very instructive articles and a descriptive editorial appear in the above mentioned magazine for August on the Solodyne and its development. Circuits which have been tried and proven successful also accompany the articles, and it appears that we are about to know shortly much of interest concerning this latest and apparently greatest development in radio reception.

Whether or not the radio public will grasp the Solodyne Principle at once depends upon several factors of importance. First, the cost of a special two-grid vacuum tubes which are necessary to all Solodyne circuits for best results. Second, the performance of the circuits in comparison with the conventional "B" Battery circuits. Third, the lasting qualities of the tubes. Freedom from radiation. The DX results obtainable and the quality of reception. Selectivity and volume will also be desired and many other points of comparison will come up. Just now everything looks in favor of the Solodyne with the exception of the attitude of the "B" Battery manufacturers. We shall see.

Electrical storms, code and fading hampered reception during the past week, up until Friday night, when the atmosphere cleared for another perfect night and the air was full of good things. Many fans came to me Saturday with marked enthusiasm about receiving conditions. Friday night and I was surprised to find that so many were still hanging to their "hobby," after a very discouraging week.

During the first of the week I re-installed my loop but got very little relief from the crashing static which prevailed. Boston, Providence, South Dartmouth, Springfield and Schenectady came in well on the loop when conditions permitted. (Also the Boston boat.) It's no use to grind your teeth at this fellow while he is on. He has his duties to perform and I believe he does it as quickly and quietly as possible under the existing conditions. It is doubtful if we fellows here on the coast ever get entirely clear from code interference so we might as well commence to make the most of it right now.

It is unofficially announced that both Edison Light and Shepard Stores will come out with 500 watts this fall. If this happens to be the case we can rejoice for being within their range for splendid reception, but oh those poor Boston fans. What a blow this will be to the non-selective receivers in that locality and what a scramble they will make to get hold of a circuit to separate these big stations if they happen to retain their present wave length. I recommend the Haynes again.

Had a lengthy conference with my technical adviser, Ed. Sanson, the other night and I have found that it is by no means easy to get him to say that there has been a circuit found yet that beats the Superdyne. Ed gives me credit for discovering Superdyne as a possibility for home construction and is much more enthusiastic over the circuit than I ever was at the height of my experiments with it. I fear that my new friend the Teledyne will go down for the count unless its performance turns out better than the experiments of the past week, although a change in the layout may bring better results. I still believe that there are splendid possibilities in the teledyne for home construction but if it surpasses my success with the superdyne its act to be a whole of a set, and I won't hesitate to tell you all about it.

Since my experience with the superdyne there have been several superdyne converts in this city and I haven't found but one who hasn't loaded this receiver down with flowery praise. If ever I got situated financially so I can again get the necessities of a superdyne together I shall not hesitate to build another for my own use. I suggest it to every radio fan who has contemplated getting a better set and you fellows who have the neodyne fever and the neodyne pocket-book should well heed my advice. I never yet heard a neodyne that could touch the superdyne on any phase of radio reception.

There are plenty of radio applause cards in my office waiting for distribution among the readers of this column. Just enclose a stamp in your letter and say that you want some applause cards and they will be sent out in the following mail. I would also like to get a few letters from summer fans. It would be of interest to the readers of this column. Come on fans loosen up the pen and let's hear from you.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Oliver assisted by Mrs. John Burnheimer, Mrs. Kenneth Teague and Mrs. Harold Perry. Miss Lois was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

The coming of "Black Oxen" to the Star Theatre tonight means a triumph in the minds of picture fans. The management have been offering a fine program of pictures but this one bids fair to surpass them all.

This is a drama from the year's best seller featuring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle supported by a most unusual cast. It is the strange romance ever told with a background of New York's most exclusive society set and the most fashionable diplomatic courts of Europe.

Tues.-Fri.

Just an Ordinary Day

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

"Good-by, dear. I must run for that train. Mighty lousy at the office these days."

Her husband kissed her and disappeared into the street, to join the line of hurrying commuters. Johnny and Sally, left alone while she was at the door, began dipping bread in milk and sipping each other's faces. The baby, Sylvia, began to yell. At the sound Mrs. Morrison came quickly back.

"You children, stop that! Hurry or you'll be late for school," she was attending to the kicking child. "Johnny! Where's your satchel? I don't know what you did with your school books. No, I'm not going to cut you any more sandwiches. Sally, you've more than you can eat. Plum cake? Of course there isn't any plum cake."

Sylvia was screaming at the top of her voice and growing red in the face. "The cause, the offending pin, was found, the children hustled off to school, Sylvia was washed, and Mrs. Morrison gave her her bottle and cleared away the breakfast things.

This done, she washed and dried them, and put them away. She swept the kitchen. She went upstairs and made the beds. A ring at the doorbell brought her down.

"No, I don't want any brooms," "Madam, I want you to take this and try it. If you don't like it, you needn't keep it."

"I tell you I don't want a broom."

"Only fifty cents, lady, and I'm a poor man out of work."

"Wait there!" Mrs. Morrison dashed into the kitchen and came back. Here's a quarter for you. Now take your brooms away. Don't thank me. It's just to get rid of you."

Ting-ling. "Oh, how do you do, Mrs. Carmichael. Yes, I'll be pleased to come to the Guild meeting—let me see, when is it? Oh, Monday Mrs. Semple's coming to do the washing for me. No, I'm so sorry."

"She's coming from you, the butcher, the baker, and the vegetable shop, and gave her orders. Then she took the meat out of the ice-box, ran it through the chopper, and made the dinner—cottage pie! The children liked that. All too soon they were trooping in."

"What! You didn't make no pudding?"

"Say, 'any pudding,' not 'no pudding,' Johnny. When will you learn to speak properly?"

"Aw, say—only them stale old apple dumplings!" muttered Sally. "Sit down, Johnny, and be thankful. I thought I gave you sandwiches to have your lunch at school?"

"Aw, we ate them. You didn't give us enough. Don't want us to go hungry, do you, Mom?"

The children dashed from the table. Sylvia was put to sleep. Mrs. Morrison took the washed clothes out of the basket and began ironing. She burned her thumb against the edge of the iron—badly. Sally and a bandage—Sylvia on the rampage again—tingling at the front door.

"Madam, I wonder what sort of gramophone you have?"

"Just the one we want. I'm not buying."

A FEW SUBSTANTIAL DISHES

CALVES' tongues are delicious eating simply stewed until tender, sliced and served hot with the following sauce:

Esopagne Sauce (Brown Sauce).—Take chopped calves' feet and veal bones crushed, with raw ham trimmings, cut into pieces, chopped carrots, leeks, onions, celery, parsley roots, salt and pepper, with a little thyme. Proves alone and much tasting will determine the quantities to be used. Add a few cloves, a bay leaf or two; these should be used with caution, and put all into a flat roasting pan, spread sweet fat over all and roast until a golden color. Stir, then the whole may be evenly colored; then sprinkle with flour and brown again, using care that it is not scorched. Now remove the whole mixture to a kettle, add soup stock to fill the kettle and a cup of tomatoes. Simmer for six hours, strain and reduce by simmering again three hours. Clear by skimming and straining. Put away on ice.

Calves' Tongues Boiled.—Cover four fresh calves' tongues with boiling water, add five slices of carrot, two stalks of celery, one onion stuck with six cloves, fifteen peppercorns and one-half tablespoonful of salt. Cook until the tongues are tender. Remove the skin and roots and cut into halves lengthwise. Cook one-half can of tomatoes with two cupfuls of brown stock reduced to one-half. Reheat the tongues in the sauce. Serve garnished with parsley, lemon slices and triangles of bread sautéed in butter.

Virginia Macaroni.—Boil one and one-half cupfuls of inch pieces of macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Dash over cold water, drain and put half of it in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with one-half teaspoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of mustard, and one-fourth cupful of grated cheese; repeat, pour over one and one-half cupfuls of white sauce, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are brown.

St. Thomas church is one of the most complete and attractive church buildings in the diocese of Maine. It was designed by the diocesan architect, E. Leander Higgins of Portland and its architecture follows the English Gothic. The materials are Weymouth sea-fame granite, throughout the wave, with a granite altar, and here and there in the chancel, choir room and organ chamber. Inside and out the finish is of cypress, the mullions of the windows being of the same wood with delicate tracery. Beside the wave channel and organ space there is ample electricity and heating.

The interior of the church is particularly beautiful being finished out in dark oak. Altar and tabernacle are of English bath stone delicately carved. In the chancel, which is of oak, there are three hand-carved panels, portraying scenes from the life of Christ after the resurrection. The central panel depicts the scene in which Christ revealed himself to St. Thomas and to the right and left of this, the panels portray, "The Supper at Emmaus" and "On the Road to Emmaus." Hand carved figures of each one of the twelve apostles are set into niches at the sides of the panels. The altar, credence, and waistcoating around the chancel are of the same material.

The choir stalls are a memorial to George Slattery, the first rector and organizer of the parish, given by the vestry. The bishop's chair is a memorial to the rector of the parish, the Rev. Henry Adams, D. D., second bishop of Maine, and is the gift of Mrs. Charles W. Henry of Philadelphia, a member of the summer colony of Camden. The communion rail is a memorial to Mrs. Emma Huse Jones, the wife of a former rector of the parish. The choir stalls are a memorial to the faithful departed members of St. Thomas Guild and were the gift of the Guild. The lectern is a memorial to Mrs. Helen Huse Stetson and is the gift of her daughter, Mrs. Julius B. Waterbury. The pulpit is a memorial to Mrs. Grace Thompson Plummer, given by her children. The pews are the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Keep. The organ which was in the old church has been rebuilt, two new stops added and a concave, radiating panel board installed, the work being done by H. C. Harrison of Portland.

Over the altar and ierodes the east window has been reserved for a portrayal of the crucifixion in stained glass, and the windows upon the south side of the nave are to portray scenes after the crucifixion, ending with the first Prayer Book service at Jamestown. The west window will be reserved for a portrayal of the Te Deum. Two lights of glass are now being manufactured by Heaton Butler and Bayne of London, one, "Christ Blessing Little Children," as a memorial to Frederick Bampton. The old rectory has been sold and a fine colonial house beside the new church, formerly the James Seward residence, remodelled into a comfortable nine room rectory. The house with the lot on which the church is built was the gift of Mrs. Charles W. Henry.

In October, 1920 the vestry of St. Thomas church authorized the rector, Rev. Ralph H. Hayden to secure funds for a new church. In the fall of 1921 sufficient funds were in hand to warrant the drawing of plans and the appointment of a building committee with the rector as chairman. Ground was broken August, 1922. The church was completed and the congregation worshipped there for the first time on February 14 of this year at which time Bishop Brewster blessed the altar, ierodes, sedalia, choir stalls, lectern and communion rail. The entire cost of the church was approximately $55,000 all of which has been raised by the rector with the exception of five thousand dollars which was in hand at the time of beginning.

St. Thomas church, Camden, was organized October 1, 1855 under Bishop Burgess, the first bishop of the diocese of Maine. Rev. George Slattery was the first rector. Gilbert Miesbach Foxwell whose work at St. Thomas began in the autumn of 1915 and ended with his death Dec. 21, 1918.

Rev. Ralph H. Hayden, the present rector, began his duties Nov. 2, 1919. He was born in Concord, N. H., Feb. 14, 1888, attended Stevens High school, Claremont, N. H., and graduated from Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Quebec, 1920 and received his second degree, M. A., in 1920. He graduated from General Theological Seminary, New York, in 1912. "THE GREAT WHITE WAY"

Wonderful Photodrama Coming To the Strand—New York Had Mid-night Performances For It.

"The Great White Way," the Cosmopolitan Corporation's big super film, woven around life in New York, is coming to Strand Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

According to fight authorities, the prize ring scene in "The Great White Way" is one of the biggest things ever accomplished in a cinematographic way. It brings to the screen for the first time scores of sporting celebrities, including Tex Rickard, Johnny Gallagher, Jimmie Quigley, Joe Humphreys, Irvin S. Cobb, H. C. Witmer, "Kid" Broad, Tammany Young, Damon Runyon, "Bugs" Baer and others. Jack Dempsey, who attended the opening, was particularly interested in the fight itself and voiced the opinion that it was as realistic as any ring battle that he has ever seen. For this fight scene, the Cosmopolitan Corporation engaged Pete Hartley, well-known professional lightweight and a contender for the championship title held by Benny Leonard, to impersonate the role of Jimmy Stone, British champion, who is defeated by the American welterweight titleholder, Joe Cain. Oscar Shaw, star of the musical comedy stage, plays the latter part, in preparation for which he underwent a vigorous course of training under the care of Johnny Hennessey, popular conditioner of fighters.

The race track scene, with its thrilling steeplechase, is another which has won commendation from leaders of the sport world. This particular scene was filmed at Belmont Park on Futurity Day last summer and also reveals flashes of the historic race of the American turf, including the world's premier jockey, Earle Sande, who appears in the cast of the new film.

Scores of other Broadway notables appear in the big newspaper office scenes of the picture. Some of those shown are Arthur Brisbane, Nell Brinkley, J. W. McDuck, Billy De Peck, Harry Hershfield, George McManus, Winsor McCay, Hal Coffman and others. The entire chorus of the famous Ziegfeld "Follies" appears in "The Great White Way." Ned Wayburn, stage director of the "Follies," also appears in the picture. Many other New York celebrities, whose fame in sports, theatricals, art, literature and other lines of endeavor has become worldwide, also appear in the new film, which draws the most accurate picture of life in New York ever achieved on either stage or screen.

The professional cast includes: Oscar Shaw, T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, Harry Watson, Olin Howland, Dore Davidson, Mrs. Ford, Stanley Ford, Billy Gould and Frank Wondelley—Adly.

IN LOVE WITH MAINE

Hon. Harry M. Ticknor of Pasadena, Next Grand Exalted Ruler, Visits Rockland.

Hon. Harry M. Ticknor of Pasadena, Calif., who will probably be the next grand exalted ruler of the Elks, was a visitor in the city last week. He at present holds the office of grand esteemed past master, and in the convention in Boston accounted for his presence in the East at this time. In such close proximity to Rockland he gladly availed himself of the privilege of coming here as the guest of Charles T. Smalley, from whom he had received a most cordial invitation.

Mr. Ticknor, who is a prominent Pasadena attorney and vice president and general manager of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses, was accompanied to Rockland by Bernard J. Leonard of Los Angeles, who is chief accountant of the Home Telephone Co., which serves Los Angeles and other large cities on the Pacific Coast; and by Frank A. Cryderman of San Pedro, a florist and superintendent of the Southern Pacific Electric Co.

A local florist found a chat with Mr. Cryderman of interest when informed that his firm prepared several set pieces for the funeral of the late victims of the explosion on the Battleship Mississippi, which put into San Pedro after the tragic occurrence which snuffed out the lives of 43 of the crew. An anchor made of sweet peas and carnations was 12 feet high, a Masonic emblem 10 feet and several other designs for the open air services were of similar proportions. A demonstration on the part of the Elks W. W. immediately following the explosion resulted in a raid on their headquarters by indignant citizens during which the building was demolished, the furniture burned and seven leaders treated to a coat of tar and feathers.

Mr. Smalley made the acquaintance of Mr. Ticknor at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915, being introduced by the late H. H. Burnham, a former Rockland citizen. It was so highly entertained by Mr. Ticknor that he never forgot the occurrence, and was immensely pleased when he found that he would have an opportunity to reciprocate.

The Westerners were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Smalley at their residence on Broadway, and at their new summer cottage at Megunticook Lake. Words cannot easily describe how much they enjoyed the motor trips on the lake, and the side trips to adjacent points of interest. The hayfields and foliage were new to them. In their section of California alfalfa is raised in great quantities, but natural hay such as is yielded by the fields of New England is unknown.

Sunday the party transferred its attentions from fresh water to salt, and enjoyed a sail around the bay in John O. Stevens' fine cabin cruiser "Glenwood." Greatly to the disgust of Mr. Stevens and the local Elks who composed the party it was rainy nearly all day.

To their surprise the storm was hailed with actual pleasure by the California trio.

"If we had a few of these rains in July," said Mr. Ticknor, "we would have a million more visitors." The Easterners would have better send this sentiment if they had known that California has been in the grip of a prolonged drought, and rain there has become almost indispensable.

Sailing to Rockland from Camden on the Boston boat Sunday night they had the satisfaction of seeing the storm clouds disappear and glimpsed a view of the majestic Camden hills.

Mr. Ticknor felt no sense of disloyalty when he gave utterance to these words: "Mr. Smalley, if it were not for your cold weather, I should pronounce your State the loveliest in the Union, California alone excepted."

Local Elks who met Mr. Ticknor, and helped entertain him, contemplated with much pleasure the prospect that he will be the next grand exalted ruler. They feel that he will fill the "Bill" to the entire satisfaction of "The Best People on Earth."

PLEASANT POINT

Victor Whittier of the Windsor Hotel, Belfast, has been spending the past week at his cottage on Gay's Island and had as guests Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hayden and friend of Springfield, Mass.

The beautiful islands not only give pleasure to the many summer people who flock to them, but the dumb animals find pleasure also. Abner Seavey saw a large moose on "Coldwell" a few days ago.

The workmen are getting quite a few mackerel in their weirs and Mr. Hart is furnishing everybody with strawberries, so Pleasant Point folks are living high.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kallioh, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maxey and son and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wallace of Thomaston spent the weekend with Mrs. Hulda Stone.

Mrs. Katie Moore has gone to Warren to visit her sister, Mrs. L. W. Butler, who is ill.

Leslie Seavey and Roger Creamer spent a short vacation at their homes here last week while the yacht on which they have employment was at North Haven.

Prof. and Mrs. George Payne of New York, who bought the Trefethen house last fall, are having it remodeled into a cottage which when completed will be one of the best in this place. A fireplace has been added, also dormer windows and sun parlors and two bath rooms. The cottage will be ready for occupancy in a few days.

This part of the town is much pleased with the new piece of State road which is being built by Charles Bucklin and his crew, leading to Pleasant Point. He is providing more road than was expected. During the past 20 months more than $800 has been raised by a small group of patriots here at Pleasant Point from the entertainments which have been held in the little schoolhouse. From the last two meetings receipts have been over $500, and almost daily come gifts from summer people who are glad to help in getting a good road. Next Saturday, July 19, is to be a "free day." Every man in this place is to give a day's work and the women are to furnish a free dinner, which will be served on the lawn in front of D. L. Maloney's house. Any one in this town or out of it who feels like giving a day's work will be served with a good dinner and receive many thanks for his kindness. One year ago last November the entertainments were started by Mrs. Grace Maloney who thought it would be a good idea for the people to meet in the schoolhouse one evening out of every week and have readings, recitations, dialogue and singing. A small collection was taken at each meeting for the purpose of helping build a road leading to Pleasant Point. The people in this place believe in the motto, "Where there's a will there's a way," and are going to keep up the good work until they have a good piece of State road leading from what is called Ad's Corner to Pleasant Point.

"Remember next Saturday is the day. When all will work without their pay. Bring your team, shovel or spade. And have a good dinner in the shade."

Edwin Jenney returned to Hyde Park, Mass., Monday after a short visit at his cottage here.

HOW THE NOMINATION STRIKES

Everybody Complimentary To Davis, But Doubtful of Chances—Hearst Swings To Third Party—The Present Odds Are 2 To 1 On President Coolidge.

Both in Republican circles and among the intimates of Senator Robert M. La Follette there were expressions of satisfaction over the action of the Democratic convention in New York in nominating John W. Davis for President. At the same time, it is impossible to conceal the dissatisfaction of the more progressive elements of the Democratic party.

Mr. Davis, who, as a former Solicitor General and a former member of the House, is well known in Washington, is looked on as a man of high standing and character, but, regarded politically and from the standpoint of getting votes next November, there are a few who believe he can make a strong showing, says a Washington despatch to the New York Herald Tribune.

In Republican circles the feeling is general that the election of President Coolidge has been made much easier by putting at the head of the Democratic ticket an Eastern conservative of the type of Davis, who has the antagonism of the Bryan elements of the Democratic party.

It is expected that Davis will go on the stump and make a vigorous campaign, but Republican leaders do not believe he can draw New York or the East away from Coolidge. It is felt that President Coolidge will be quite as strong as Davis and probably stronger with the business elements of the East and of the country in general, and that with the rank and file the President will be more popular.

The long wrangle and intense bitterness that characterized the Democratic convention, it is generally felt, will handicap Davis in his efforts to make a showing at the polls.

So far as the West is concerned, it is the expectation that much of it will be divided between President Coolidge and Senator La Follette, and that Davis is likely to be a low third in a number of Western states.

The only hope the Democrats could have had in the nomination of a conservative Eastern man to head the ticket would be that he would hold the South and carry the East. This general belief, regardless of politics, is that Davis has almost no chance in the West. But the general feeling is strong as Coolidge in the East, and that about all he can rely on is the South.

Public comment in high administration quarters was lacking by reason of the affliction that has visited the White House. But the general tenor of Republican opinion was clearly apparent.

Senator La Follette was not prepared to make a public statement. However, his close friends did not conceal their satisfaction at the nomination of Davis. They declared it made it absolutely certain that La Follette would roll up a big vote all through the West, and especially in the agricultural country. They are convinced that Davis will be weak among the farmers and that he will have but a slender hold on labor.

Both by Republicans and by the La Follette men it is pointed out that in the course of the convention Davis was assailed by William J. Bryan, as well as by other Democrats of the Progressive type, as a representative of Wall Street. He was attacked because of his legal connection with the house of Morgan. Now that the nomination has been made, it is further pointed out that it will be impossible for Bryan or any of his followers to make up for the political damage that has been done Davis.

While the Democratic policy is to provide a running mate for Davis who will tend to offset the objections to him in the West, the view of both Republicans and the third ticket men is that the Presidential campaign will center about the heads of the tickets and that the Vice Presidential candidates will not vitally affect the outcome.

Assailing John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, as the representative of privilege, plutocracy and sinister money power, William Randolph Hearst in Thursday's "New York American" abandons the Democratic party and urges the "progressive votes of both the old parties" to be given to the new third party. In editorials on both the front and back pages, "The American" denounces the Democratic party for nominating Davis, referring to him as the "Morgan lawyer."

Under the heading "Democrats Promise to Move the White House to Wall Street," one of the editorials states in part:

"The proud old Democratic party proposes to substitute the House of Morgan for the White House. After spending more than two weeks in deliberation, the Democrats decided to commit political suicide. . . . The Democratic party, instead of being severely controlled by the bosses, is now openly controlled by the bosses, just exactly like the Republican party. . . . The common people, both Republicans and Democrats, are thus plainly directed to the ranks of the new third party, organizing with such a swift support from all sections of the country."

"The arrogance of the Democratic bosses is now manifested when, in the face of a nationwide demand to drive privilege, plutocracy and corruption out of Washington, they nominate the legal adviser of a banking house that represents chiefly privilege, plutocracy and is the most sinister money power in the country."

What The Editors Say

Here are a few lines from what some of the leading newspapers said editorially:

New York World (Dem.) What happened in the Garden was a rally to a man of unquestioned dignity, intelligence and integrity. After two weeks of bitterness the delegates had come to a swift realization that he was the road to self-respect.

New York Times (Ind. Dem.) Denialless Mr. Davis has to face severe tests. No one will envy him his job. But unless all the estimates of Mr. Davis are proved very astray, he is the man best fitted at this time to reconstruct and reanimate his own party, and to lead it with intelligence and vigor against the Republicans.

Boston Traveller (Ind. Rep.) The party is to be congratulated upon having eventually chosen as its leader a man of high character and marked ability.

Nebraska State Journal (Rep.) After turning down McAdoo, the progressive, for having been the highly paid attorney of oil magnate Doheny, the convention nominates Davis, the highly salaried attorney of J. P. Morgan. Such is the consistency of politics. Probably neither man is controlled, as a matter of fact, by his legal connections. So shell-shocked and shattered by their long convention fight are the Democrats that their nomination is of extremely doubtful value to its possessor. It looks like another Alton B. Parker episode in Democratic history.

Florida Times-Union (Dem.) The man chosen is above reproach. More than this, he is a thinker and doer, a strong, clear, capable man, fearless, talented beyond criticism.

Atlanta Journal. A gentleman, a scholar and a thinker, he derives his political lineage from days when the Old Dominion mothered the most chivalrous statesmanship America ever has known.

Detroit Free Press. The Democratic National convention has nominated Davis for the Presidency as a party preservation measure, not because the delegates consider him an outstanding national figure who will make a strong, compelling standard bearer. The nomination has been born of desperation rather than of optimism.

Boston Herald (Ind. Rep.) For several reasons we are thankful for his nomination. Now we are to have a high level campaign. Contrast the probabilities with the first choice, a man as John W. Davis, instead of one of the others whose names were before the convention. Of course, Mr. Davis has not the slightest chance of election. John W. Davis is an honest and capable gentleman picked out by the Democrats for political martyrdom. His nomination splits the Democratic party wide open. Bryan says so.

San Francisco Chronicle (Ind.) Every patriot will rejoice that the Democracy finally nominated such a man as John W. Davis, instead of one of the others whose names were before the convention. Of course, Mr. Davis has not the slightest chance of election. John W. Davis is an honest and capable gentleman picked out by the Democrats for political martyrdom. His nomination splits the Democratic party wide open. Bryan says so.

Two To One, Coolidge

W. L. Darnell and Co. announced Wednesday they had placed the betting on the Presidential election. That firm laid $4,000 against $2,000 that Calvin Coolidge, the Republican nominee, would defeat John W. Davis, the Democratic standard bearer, a few minutes after the convention announced its choice. The firm has an additional $10,000 to bet the same way.

After the nomination of Davis, J. S. Fried & Co., No. 20 Broad street, reported they had $25,000 to be bet at odds of 2 to 1 that President Coolidge will be elected next November. The firm said it had placed some wagers on that basis.

Political Brevities

On the day that the Democratic convention adjourned Dudley Field Malone of New York sent William Jennings Bryan a letter in which he "regretfully felt the best thing for the party would be for Mr. Bryan to withdraw from the convention now."

Dorsey K. Potter of Clarkburg, Va., tells the story how John W. Davis' father, who was a Representative himself, opposed his son's entrance into politics as a candidate for Congress in 1912. When the son was being boomed for Congress his father tried to dissuade him, but he was elected in a normally Republican stronghold. "You are no friend of John's," the elder Mr. Davis told Mr. Potter. "You are making a poor politician out of a good lawyer."

William Jennings Bryan, who openly and vigorously opposed the nomination of John W. Davis as the Democratic presidential candidate, announced after Mr. Davis had been nominated that he would "support the ticket."

Senator James Couzens of Michigan, announcing his candidacy for nomination at the September primaries to succeed himself in a formal statement refused to pledge his full support to President Coolidge or either state or national Republican platform. He challenged the right of party "bosses" to dictate his course of action and made his bid for the vote of Michigan electors on his past record for which, he said, he had no apologies to make. Asked by the chairman of the Republican State central committee to resign a statement pledging his support to the party platform and endorsing President Coolidge. Senator Couzens replied he could not do so.

According to the manager of the conference, 70,000 cigarettes were smoked by delegates up to the time of John W. Davis' nomination, also several dozen great humidor of pipe tobacco, supplied gratis to the delegates. The manager disclosed that 250,000 packages of mint lozenges had been distributed and that delegates used 12,000 souvenir post cards and 10,500 sheets of stationery.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, endorsed for President last week at the conference for Progressive political action, will not receive the support of the Farmer-Labor party, which held its convention recently at St. Paul, it was announced Thursday by the executive committee of the party. "The national executive committee of the Farmer-Labor party, in a statement said that the conference for Progressive political action at Cleveland 'had surrendered to La Follette, betrayed the Farmer-Labor masses in the hands of merchants, manufacturers, bankers and rich farmers and thus destroyed the only chance for a united front in the coming presidential election.'"

McAdoo On Band Wagon

William G. McAdoo, before sailing for Europe Saturday said he would give the Davis-Bryan ticket his "cordial support" and that he would take part in the campaign on his return in September. "I am satisfied that Davis is in full accord with the progressive program outlined in the Democratic platform," he said. "I am confident that as President he would faithfully execute the party's mandate."

Referring to criticism from some quarters of Mr. Davis because of his connection with certain interests as a lawyer, Mr. McAdoo said:

"Mr. Davis' high character, integrity and services should satisfy every apprehension of this sort."

Betting On Bryan

A moderate sized bet at odds of 1 to 8 that John W. Bryan of Nebraska will be elected President of the United States, although he is a Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, was placed with J. S. Fried & Co., New York Saturday. It was described as the most unusual political wager in the history of the country. The idea is that the candidacy of La Follette will prevent a majority in the Electoral College, and result in the Senate naming the next President.

Odds favoring President Coolidge rose to the new high mark of 2 to 1, with a marked scarcity of funds reported to back the candidacy of John W. Davis, the Democratic opponent.

A SAILOR'S LOG

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—How few there are who remember the old familiar harbor names of forty to fifty years ago—Herring Gut, Tarpaun Cove and Holmes Cove, for instance. I found amid my collection of sea-faring paraphernalia an old log-book. Of one of my voyages of nearly fifty years ago I find these entries:

President Roads (Nantasket, Mass.) May 21. Got under way about 8.30 this morning. Passed Minot's about 11. At dark made Race Point Light; 8.30 p. m. moon out, wind light.

May 22. Fine and clear; wind sprang up about east. Passed Pollock Rip 2.30 p. m. then Shovel Point and Handkerchief. Strong breeze to the eastward. Got into Holmes Hole and anchored.

May 23. Cold and stormy. Harbor full of Down East vessels. Went on board of one or two of them. Cleared up about 5 p. m. wind north.

May 24. Got underway about 4 a. m. and beat up Vineyard Sound. 1 p. m. passed Gay Head, 3.30 passed Sow & Pigs Lightship. Stiff breeze W.S.W., began to moderate about sundown.

May 25. Calm, drifted all day. Wind came up about north-east. Kept off for Dutch Island, beat up,

GOOD ADVICE

Study every detail of the law of your community affecting motor cars and then observe the law carefully. For example, make sure you have an officially approved lens and light controlling device. Make sure the device is properly adjusted to your car.

Sound your horn in approaching a "blind" corner, a curve, a hilltop, or where there is not a clear view.

Use your best efforts to keep your car from smoking.

Extra care is necessary in crossing most bridges. Accidents on bridges are usually serious ones.

Promptly turn out of the tracks when signalled by a street car in the rear to do so. The street car cannot turn out.

PARK THEATRE

A cast selected for type was chosen for "The Covered Wagon," which will be on view Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Lola Wilson plays the heroine—Molly Wingate, a typical girl of the frontier days, beautiful, big of soul and with the bravery and stamina that the wild experiences of the caravan times demanded.

James Warren Kerrigan is seen as Will Banton, the intrepid leader, whose sterling qualities win through in the face of impending disaster and hold the heart of Molly despite the efforts of a rival to blacken his character. The rival, Sam Woodhull, is portrayed by Alan Hale, noted screen villain. Mr. Wingate is played by Charles Ogle, noted member of Paramount Stock Company and Mrs. Wingate by Ethel Wales, who played Aunt Matilda in "The Old Homestead." Bill Jackson, Jim Bridger and Kit Carson, famous scouts, are interpreted by Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall and Guy Oliver, respectively while John Fox does the part of Jed Wingate, a boy.

This is one of the most ambitious efforts of Paramount pictures—and is expected to prove a pictorial historical document of immense value aside from a thrilling tale of the days when the west was untamed and largely in the hands of the redskins. The picture was made in Utah and Nevada, and the preparations were epochal in their extent, as well as fidelity to the original characters, scenes, settings and properties used in the production—adv.

STRAND THEATRE

"The Old Fool," which had its final showings today, deals with Granddad Steele, who is considered the burden of the household and "an old fool" because he is continually telling yarns of Civil War days.

John, his youngest grandson, the only one who has any affection for the old man, takes him to Texas when John's brother wants to put him in an asylum. Granddad proves that although he is old, he is a mighty good body, for he not only helps to capture a band of smugglers but saves the girl that John loves. Here is a picture that promises to be a real treat for its atmosphere lies not in lavish sets and atmosphere but in a real story with real people. An extremely capable cast has been assembled. James Earrows has the title role; Lloyd Hughes plays the part of Johnny, Betty Francisco is his leading lady and Louise Fazenda and O. V. Harrison furnish the humor.

For Wednesday and Thursday, the management offers "The Midnight Flower." In accordance with his weekly custom Rev. Roy Allen visited the county jail, where he tried to give solace and comfort to the inmates. A lone prisoner whom the matron described as being particularly unruly, was visited by the Rev. Mr. Allen.
